

UNIVERSITY of WASHINGTON

Easy way to achieve a fresh look

Adding comfort, style with conference linens

As experts in higher education services – from product procurement to project management and installation – we were recently hired to supply the University of Washington with linens for their summer program, which included hosting the Special Olympics USA Games.

“The service is incredible as the staff is able to understand my needs and really cares about our success.”

– Kate Flowers, University of Washington

To ensure we met the high standards of the university, as well as its students and the Special Olympics attendees, we created a detailed project plan that included:

- ▶ On-site inventory and inspection
- ▶ Presentation of a selection of our linens and recommendation on best fit
- ▶ Ensuring the project met the tight completion deadline of the university
- ▶ Tending to all aspects of the project – from brainstorming to installation

All items were delivered on time to the customer in just two days, and final deliveries were made specifically to outfit their three new residence halls. Through consistent communication and support, we were able to expertly deliver solutions for a final result that made a stylish, comfortable upgrade for the University of Washington.
