Online Learning Program Consulting & Faculty Training

Slalom, LLC is a modern consulting firm focused on strategy, technology, and effective organizational transformation. Slalom provides members with leading-edge online learning program consulting and faculty training to create positive student and faculty experiences. With locations throughout the country and nationwide reach, Slalom's teams of consultants include current and former education professors, lecturers, and staff members who live and work in the communities they serve.

Slalom brings depth and drive to online learning, providing technology enablement along with faculty training and workshops to help your institution transform classroom learning into a modern, sustainable, and engaging virtual learning experience for faculty and students. The company partners with members to analyze your on-line learning needs and helps you develop a plan to accomplish your objectives quickly and efficiently.

Contract Highlights:

- Online learning program development and change management to help faculty and staff adopt and adapt to organizational change.
- Data and analytics to drive insights for enrollments, courses, approaches, and strategies to architect and create the best digital learning experiences for faculty and students.
- Technology and cloud transformation to improve efficiency and increase flexibility.
- Student-centered design to create compelling online learning experiences.
- Ongoing program management to help you implement and manage new learning courses, systems, and/or curricula efficiently and effectively.
- Blends design, engineering, and analytics expertise to help you develop ongoing online learning strategies, systems, and programs.
- Transformation expertise: from new technologies to industry disruption, education has been rapidly evolving. Slalom specializes in working through these changes with you.
