

Now there's a better way to ship hazardous materials

Improper shipping of hazardous materials can be costly, not only financially but to your reputation and your ability to ship. We've expanded our hazardous materials shipping services to give you the flexibility to ship on your schedule at a cost that fits your budget. With these enhancements, you can ship more categories to more countries, with more delivery choices, lower cost options and a higher level of compliance confidence.

Save on hazardous shipping with UPS
FedEx® requires that dangerous goods in six of the nine dangerous goods classes be sent by a premium next-day morning service with accessible shipments

Switching to UPS could save you 50% or more.

And, we offer more delivery and cost options.¹

The UPS value proposition

- Package or freight, air or ground
- Reliability, with earlier delivery to more postal codes
- Balance speed and cost with more service choices
- Only carrier that lets you follow either 49 CFR or IATA procedures for domestic air shipments
- Year-round compliance training for customers
- 24/7 Help Desk for complete regulatory/compliance support

Shipping systems help ensure compliance

- UPS WorldShip® technology validates hazardous materials information to increase acceptance rates

APIs help ensure compliance for non-UPS WorldShip customers

- Dangerous Goods API² – verifies that shipments meet requirements; makes chemical look-up easy
- Pre-Notification API² – notifies UPS that shipments have been processed and will enter the UPS network
